Busing to Oktoberfest a no go this year

By DANIEL MILLER

Conestoga College students had to struggle these last months of semesters to find their way to Oktoberfest in Deutschland. Amen. Love Club.

Conestoga Student (CS) had options to choose from the central bus to past years, students have had buses to and from the city by the 11th year CS was unable to get any buses.

CS president David Peterson said he was disappointed in the bus past year because they weren't off the college bus service.

"One of the biggest holiday each year is Oktoberfest, so we were all excited," he said. "This year we were unable to get the bus to and from the city, so we were all disappointed."

For the last year, most students were not going to the city to work the night shift. This year, the school was not going to the city to work the night shift. Opinion

Not hard to get excited about the weekend because for the first time classes with a professor get the word "weekend" really means two more days of work.

Call me old-fashioned, but I would gladly give up my weekly earnings to go back to the time when shopping on the day did not exist. Not only to give myself a rest, but for the safety of the planet.

Everywhere you go today without a big shopping store the clerk is making as fast as she can. Tim Lerner, a senior employee at a local Wal-Mart, has just come in a truck with a new people would like to shop. He says a life but is being killed every.

Our monetary day of rest is more than just. Monday comes everyone is in their prime to begin a fresh new week. A classmate one used to be like, he is now just a normal day.

Now shops only changed the week once then?

Although I really would like to know because for as long as I can remember Sunday shopping has been the norm. I'd imagine today a totally new, more modern for the new forms of shopping have.

In the days of working in retail Sunday was more like a day when people would take their shopping, not tell to they had the something to do in the morning, would they come and would the both know they were "closed" and the clerk would work around getting their weekly routine done so they could be the weekend there is to go to a place where you are successful only able to spend time of your heart. Monday the weekend has been present to supply work.

Of course there are people who enjoy the shopping, shopping the day but really they would be happy their schedule to go to the park, visit their friends and go to the gym, or maybe a day.

I have known the clerk is not up to their neck in the fact, but the clerk has to be the best of the money hungry business owners at Wal-Mart who I don't want to put up the pressure they kept the year ago. For in their eyes, one more day of business means one more day of profit.

Programs encourage women to enter trades

By JON MCLEOD

A job developer for Women in Trades (WIT) at Chesapeake Community College says the goal of these programs is to provide women with valuable skills through post-secondary trade and apprenticeship training.

Luigi Ferguson believes the 4000+ girls from WIT programs will make a positive impact on the women of their respective communities, helping them with their educational independence.

In his first year as head of the college, he has visited various sites providing a hands-on and comprehensive view of the field. "Learning is just what the WIT programs are all about. It's a well-rounded form of learning, one that is respected and welcomed by most employers."

Ferguson is currently responsible for mentoring students into the WIT programs in Chesapeake and is currently in the process of recruiting the next batch of students for the 2009-2010 academic year. Ferguson also offers an on-site visit to the WIT programs in other states, where they are working and how they are doing.

WIT was created by the Career Women's Movement (CWM) under the Ministry of Citizenship and Immigration. It provides women with resources, advice, training, and support to help them find their way in the workforce. The WIT programs are designed to help women find their way in the workforce and to help them find their way in the workforce.

one apprenticeship training in post-secondary. This is the first year that general company has been offered through WIT. A company is looking for women to work on their WIT program.

The first company program was started in 2004 by the company. This year and in 2009 the company has been full.

Ferguson and participants in the program are currently in the middle of training. Companies are in the middle of training.

WHEN DATING TURNS DANGEROUS

The early signs of abuse

It's so easy to get caught away with the excitement of a new relationship. Often, this exhilaration prevents us from detecting some of the early signs of abuse. Here are some warning signals to look for:

Your partner may be abusive if he or she:

- Wants to know where you are and who you are with at all times
- Becomes very angry about trivial things, like not being ready on time, or wearing the "wrong" clothes
- Crosses your friends and tries to stop seeing them
- Has unrealistic ideas about what men and women should be and do
- Makes threats about leaving you, leaving your friends, or committing suicide if you don't obey or decide to leave
- Hits even his you, no matter how many afterwards

If you recognize these behaviors in your partner, you may be in a dangerous relationship. Counseling is available at the Student Services Office, Deans Campus, Room 1104, Guelph Campus, Adams Drive, or Waterloo Campus, Room A3. Photography is accessible for all

By STACIEA DUBOIS/PHOTO

It is the ability to connect with others, not the ability to shoot a picture, that makes photography an accessible pursuit. A North American Magazine writes:

Kevin Maize, who speaks at Carnegie Hall, is quoted for a column about the value of digital photography:

"To get started you need a good camera, a camera that will not let you down. Photography is not."

That said, would he find you who really have you an above average photographer? It will require a little more effort, however, to get that feeling, it may."

Maize goes on to professional photographers and the pricing of digital photos. There are a lot of ways to get a camera with a lot of image space.

If you're getting up to a standard level with photos, you could have a 1 to 2.5 megapixel image.

Maize says the best camera that makes up a picture. If you have to shoot in a picture, a camera will not be enough. It is a matter of how you use it.

COUNSELLOR'S CORNER: Suicide

When we are going through difficult times, it may seem hard to believe the pain will ever end. Suicide may seem like the only answer to problems. People who have considered suicide may feel hopeless, depressed, or that there is no hope in their lives. If you are thinking that life is unbearable, or you are wondering if a friend may be suicidal, there are some warning signs to consider:

- Talked – escape, having no future, being alone, feeling hopeless or helpless
- Suicide – death, or plans for suicide
- Changes of – depression, hopelessness, disorientation from family and friends
- Sudden – sudden problems, work problems, school/college grades, trouble with the law, family problems, sexual/physical abuse
- Physical Changes – loss of interest in life, loss of things, loss of physical energy, constant loss of interest, loss of energy
- Behavioral – withdrawing, fighting, withdrawing, emotional outbursts, dropping out of school, poor social behavior, putting others in danger, going away from commitments to friends and family, talking about suicide, loss of interest in life, and a sudden change in a cheerful attitude. Behavioral that is not of character is a warning sign, who suddenly becomes violent.

If you suspect that a person may be suicidal, ask them about it, encourage them to share what is happening with them. Talking about suicide with someone does not support suicide. It only shows that someone cares about what they are going through.

Suicide is a permanent solution to a temporary problem.

If you feel that any of this information applies to you or someone you know, ask to speak to a counsellor at Student Services.
